Jay Coomes and Hilda Moore reported on the “Teaching That Works” conference at Sanford Community College. Although they reported that some of the workshops were interesting, their consensus was that most of it was not as advanced in assessment and learning centeredness as we already are.

Hilda Moore reported that she reviewed the “Who took my Cheese” presentation and believes it would be valuable and great asset to our committee for future use. We are considering using it at an upcoming Professional Development day.

The committee discussed the results of the poll that was recently sent to faculty soliciting suggestions for Fall Convocation. We have received several responses thus far which will be considered in the planning for Fall Convocation.

The committee discussed many potential workshop topics, which ones we should offer, and will be notifying faculty soon with a list of possible topics for their professional training this fall.

The meeting was adjourned and the next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 30th, in room 124, building 14.

Respectfully submitted,

Cathy Alexander and Jay Coomes
